This map is a schematic representation only and shows the approximate location of major Australian pipelines. It does not show exact pipeline routes. Route, length and capacity information is approximate and intended as a guide only, and is correct as at June 2023.

This map is intended as a general source of information only.

Note: The coloured sections on this map are gas-producing basins of Australia. They are approximate in size and the varying colours are not representative of estimated reserves or developed infrastructure.
